Seminar on Focused Improvement through Loss – Cost Analysis
4-5 March 2010: Chennai

The word “Loss” is the terminology given to the GAP between “Expected” vs “Actual”. If the gap is more, we can say it is a big loss, if it is less, it is a small loss and if no gap it will become a profit. We are at presently recovering from the recession era. Organizations had already felt the pinch of contribution loss and in the worst case cash loss. There are many ways to face the impact of recession. But cost reduction and loss elimination are the two most important factors.

In today’s cut throat competition a company can only be in profit, when its people are able to understand the Loss-Cost relationship. Now selling price is decided by the customer (market), so to make profit an organization has to work on Manufacturing cost, where the real losses are happening.

Every production activity consists of two variables. One is the process and the second one process linked equipment. It is very important that every employee in the organization must understand what type of losses appeared between the process and the equipment and is able to relate them to monetary losses .

This seminar will focus on Manufacturing & related functions & processes to eliminate losses and make profit under any circumstances of Business. Knowledge for identifying these losses and relating them in terms of money value to eliminate the same at work place becomes very critical for organization to be profitable.

Need to eliminate Loss:

Satisfaction of stake holders
Increase Productivity
Reduce cost
Increase and invite market share
Retain the business for longer period

To meet the recession
Prepare to face the competition
Create Conducive Environment
Initiate Creativity among the employees

This two day seminar organized by TPM Club India will address the following issues:
